

view from Piękna
on the monumental path

the observation point on Kandelabry

1:5000

1:500

Poznanie się z MDM

- Plac Konstytucji and everything within it is a well known historical heritage, reminding us how a "living room" of the city should've looked like in PRL. Erected in 1950s they embody the ideology of communist authorities and the new social order.
- Such an important place lacked welcoming history that's easy to access, as well as the observation point. The ambience and large area for moving harmony was already on point but the modern minimalistic flower pots were completely irrelevant.
- The proposition is to change every 3 big flower pots in line to monuments and historical plaques that will tell the story of how the area was erected. Moving from the Piękna as a beginning, the story-telling would end on the observation point on Kandelabry, as it is one of the most visited places back in PRL.
- The harmony would be restored without messing up the existing movement, as well as bringing up the value for MDM, Plac Konstytucji showing the history for foreigners, younger generations and everyone interested.

Stefan Kuczyński